The new flag, which is red, white, and black with a green triangle at the top, was hoisted at 10 a.m. by Syrian soldiers. The Egyptian army, which had been in Beirut since the 1956 Suez Canal crisis, was ordered to leave by a Syrian radio broadcast. The broadcast said that the Egyptian army was no longer welcome in Syria and that it should leave the country immediately.

DEFENCE EXERCISE

Nine-Point Plan Recommended By Brigadier

VERNON B.C. (Staff) — A nine-point planning program for municipal councils was recommended this morning by Brigadier J. F. A. Lister, provincial Civil Defence Co-ordinator, during Canada's biggest joint Army-Civilian re-entry exercise.

Brigadier Lister, to more than 400 UMCB delegates and civil and civil defence personnel, recommended a survey of manpower and equipment in each municipality, turning schedules for municipal employees, and the creation of warden, rescue and radiation monitoring service.

His remarks were the prelude to a morning-long exercise punctuated by a simulated atomic bomb explosion and in the later stages drenched by a persistent rain.

Three Children Die In Accidents On Island

VICTORIA (CP) — Three children died in two separate accidents on Vancouver Island Friday.

One-year-old Patrick Joe died when flames completely destroyed his parents' home on the Polly Point Indian reserve near Port Alberni. His sister, Adeline, died a few hours later from burns.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Peter Joe's four children had been left alone in the house while they went to town. Two of the four escaped unhurt.

Explosion Not Aimed At Nehru

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Police today discounted the possibility that a bomb which exploded in a street here Friday night five minutes after Jawaharlal Nehru passed through was aimed at the prime minister.

They said the bomb was only a small explosive and that six persons in the vicinity had received only minor injuries.

Senior police officials attributed the incident to "mischievous mischief" and said streetlights had fallen a few seconds before the explosion took place.

Nehru, 72, was returning home after opening a fair at which he had appealed to Sikh Patilarch Tara Singh to call off his 47-day fast aimed at securing a separate Punjab — speaking state.

Police immediately launched a big manhunt here for the planners of the bomb and several persons were reported to have been interrogated.

The explosion injured a policeman and five pedestrians.

Influenza Epidemic

VANCOUVER (CP)—A doctor warned today that an epidemic of influenza is expected this year and recommended immunization against the virus.

Dr. John Nelson, medical director for the B.C. Electric Co., said influenza vaccinations are particularly recommended for people with chronic or recurrent illnesses, especially illnesses involving the chest or heart.

He said the U.S. Public Health Service had issued the warning of a possible epidemic because they appeared to follow a cyclical pattern.

MANY DEATHS FROM FALLOUT SAYS AMERICAN SCIENTIST

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fallout from the 15 Russian nuclear tests will cause tens of thousands of deaths from cancer, as well as birth defects, says Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel prize-winning scientist.

The California Institute of Technology biochemist told a press conference Friday that if the Russians test larger bombs — in the 20-to-100-megaton range—even more persons will die. He estimated such testing would cause about 140,000 deaths from cancer and an equal number from birth defects — because of radioactive fallout.

British Writers Protest Present Power Politics

LONDON (Reuters) — Fifty-nine leading British writers, artists and musicians have signed a statement protesting the "immorality of present power politics," it was announced here today.

The protest has been sent to Prime Minister Macmillan and to the United States, Soviet and French ambassadors in London.

Sculptress Barbara Hepworth drew up the statement in consultation with composer Benjamin Britten, artists Graham Sutherland and John Bratby and Sir Herbert Read, writer and critic.

It says: "Culture means the affirmation of life. There can be no true culture while we make stockpiles of nuclear weapons—they are the negation of life."

"It is said that the bones of our children and grandchildren will be contaminated by dirty tests."

PM Plans Early Return — No Election This Winter

By JAMES NELSON
OTTAWA (CP) — A legislative program with vote-getting appeal as its foremost feature is likely to be put before a new session of Parliament early in December.

An informed source said Friday night Prime Minister Diefenbaker is planning to put the current Parliament back to work before Christmas — thus ruling out virtually all possibility of a general election this fall or winter.

The objective would be to unveil an attractive legislative program in the throne speech, have it adopted in principle before Christmas and then resume the hard work of the 1962 session in January.

The only change that might be made in this schedule, informants said, would be brought about by the international situation, if it worsened sufficiently for the government to feel an immediate election was needed.

Diefenbaker Comes Close

Mr. Diefenbaker is believed by many observers here to have come close to revealing his election thinking when he addressed the Union of British Columbia Municipalities Thursday night in Vernon, B.C.

He expressed pride that Canada's economy is rolling again but said the country faced another unemployment problem this winter. The prime minister added, however, that there were good prospects of the economic situation becoming even brighter next year after the seasonal slump.

Observers interpreted this to mean that the prime minister thinks next summer or fall will be a much better time than this autumn for the Conservatives in a general election.

The fifth session of the current Parliament, the 24th Parliament, will open Dec. 4 or 11 and adjourn after the throne speech debate for a Christmas-New Year's recess.

WESTERN POWERS SAY

No Negotiations On Allied Troops

NEW YORK (AP) — The Western powers are reported to have told Russia in diplomatic talks here that they have no intention of negotiating with Communist East Germany over the right to keep Allied troops in West Berlin.

The future status of the U.S., British, and French garrisons in one of several critical issues which have arisen in talks held separately by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Secretary Earl Home of Britain with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of Russia.

This series of New York talks, which began Sept. 21, is ending today, but Rusk and Gromyko plan to meet again in Washington sometime next week. Rusk plans to return to Washington tonight and Lord Home to London.

In Washington, it is understood Gromyko hopes to have a conference also with President Kennedy, but U.S. officials said the meeting has not yet been arranged.

ASPECTS STUDIED

The New York talks which actually mark the start of informal negotiations over a compromise settlement, have dealt with three major aspects of the Berlin crisis:

1. Rusk and Home have tried to impress upon Gromyko that the Western powers will fight if necessary to defend West Berlin and its access routes against Communist encroachment. Some aides of the two Western ministers think Soviet Premier Khrushchev now understands that he runs a grave risk of plunging the world into war if he overplays his hand.

2. Rusk has tried to discover whether Khrushchev is willing to agree to a broad basis for formal negotiations on Berlin, including questions such as Germany's future and European security.

3. By raising questions about Russia's Berlin policy, Rusk and Home have sought to explore the possibilities for success of a foreign ministers conference. In essence, they want to know whether Khrushchev is willing to compromise or whether he intends to dictate the terms of a settlement.

Soviet Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky has arrived in East Germany, says the independent West German newspaper Die Welt. The paper says a radio message to this effect from a Soviet military transmitter in East Germany was monitored.

B.C. Mines Minister Kiernan said Friday night that British Columbia has not "scrapped the surface" of its hydro-potential because federal policies are holding up development in this field. Mr. Kiernan spoke at the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy meeting in Victoria.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming today called his appointment as chairman of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development "a great honor for Canada and for myself." The new 20-member organization, which replaces the Organization for European Economic Co-operation, was unanimously named Mr. Fleming as chairman of its council of ministers at its inaugural meeting in Paris.

ANNUAL MEET MONDAY

Britain's Labor Party To Be More Effective

LONDON (CP)—Britain's Labor party supporters assembled in the seaside resort of Blackpool Monday confident that their annual conference will produce a political force more effective and cohesive than they have had in years.

The predictions are that their annual gathering will be more peaceful than any they have had since they lost power to the Conservatives 10 years ago.

This will be a sharp contrast with the past. In recent years the party has been rocked to its foundations by sharp divisions over basic issues such as defence and nationalization.

These battles pitched leader Hugh Gaitskell, a moderate right-winger, into one of the loneliest and most difficult fights of his career.

Most are agreed now that Gaitskell has won and swung the party around to this way of thinking. Observers are agreed that the movement's primary task in the months ahead is to gather more support from voters who consider they have progressed from the working to the middle class, and therefore feel they are "above" voting labor.

Political correspondents have been lavish in their praise of Gaitskell.

COMEBACK SURPRISES

"Labor's comeback is astonishing—and due more than anything else to Gaitskell's own courage and unequivocal behavior," says Robert Carvel of the London Evening Standard.

"A year ago the party was grimey, it was itself to pieces. It was riddled with dissension and hate."

At that time, Gaitskell's defence policy was tossed out and a policy of unilateral nuclear disarmament was adopted. The leader refused to accept this as gospel for the parliamentary party.

A campaign, mobilized to ensure a repudiation of last year's decision, now appears to have been successful. The majority of the powerful Trades Union Congress leaders now are lined up solidly behind a policy stressing the need for Western collective security to counter Communist pressures.

The effect of this mobilization of support for the Gaitskell line basically is to isolate still more the more extreme left-wing elements.

What's At The Movies

The Big Parade of Hits, currently hitting its stride in Kelowna, offers a chilling yet realistic performance, beginning next Monday for two days when "The Naked Jungle" makes its debut next Mon. for two days, starring Eleanor Parker and Charlton Heston.

The Naked Jungle is set against the treacherous South American jungle. Heston is seen as a plantation owner who being thousands of miles from civilization, marries an American girl by proxy. Eleanor Parker is his wife, who travels to the heart of the jungle to be with the man she has never seen.

The relationship between the two is the beginning, strained but onto the screen comes the fearsome, incredibly ghastly Marabunta. It is then that the screen comes alive with what has been reported to be, more chills than any one other film has generated in recent years.

Continuing Famous Player's 1961 fall policy of the "greatest array of screen entertainment in its 4-year history," the Paramount brings Jeff Chandler and Eleanor Parker exclusively to the screen in 20th Century Fox's presentation of "Return to Peyton Place," beginning Wednesday October 4 through Saturday, October 7.

All the prejudices and smoldering hates that flourish under the veneer of a proper American community, erupt with startling and dramatic explosiveness in "Return to Peyton Place."

When Allison MacKenzie, (CAROL LYNLEY) the young novelist with the soaring pen and the knife-edge insight, publishes a book based upon the lives and secret love of Peyton Place, a tempest erupts in this tradition-loving and astringent town. Leading the crusade to ban the book from the public library is Roberta Carter (MARY ASTOR) the solid citizen with motives of the leftiest calibre, who cannot bear to see the homogeneous population of her town invaded by "foreigners" or the good name of Peyton Place laid open to the curious gaze of "strangers."

How Allison returns to Peyton Place to defend, in the presence of the entire town assembly, the basic American right to freedom of speech and press... how Roberta Carter is caught ultimately in the meshes of her own sadism as the basic decency of all the citizens suddenly asserts itself in the course of Allison's "trial"... is the theme of a picture that will certainly rank as one of the year's most provocative screen productions.

INVESTIGATE BEATING

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Provincial Police are investigating the beating Monday night of Henri Cousineau, 33-year-old editor of a weekly newspaper in suburban Jacques-Cartier. Attorney-General Georges Lapalme was reported to have ordered the investigation into the attack on Mr. Cousineau by four men. The editor of La Voix de la Rive Sud told police he was on his way home after a late night at the office and supper with his staff when he was beaten and kicked.

WEEK'S REVIEW

Trouble Flares in Syria; JFK's Peace Challenge

Syrian army revolts against U.A.R. Kennedy proposes "peace race." Parliament winds up longest session.

The spotlight of world attention swung back to the Middle East this week, away from such long-smouldering trouble spots as Berlin and the Congo.

The new crisis broke early Thursday morning as rebel Syrian troops took over radio stations and proclaimed the breakup of Syria's three-year union with Egypt in the United Arab Republic.

Gamal Abdel Nasser, ambitious Egyptian president whose dreams of Arab union gave birth to the federation, cracked down swiftly, ordering his troops to crush what he called a rebellion by a few army officers.

SAY PARATROOPERS SLAIN

By Friday the rebels had declared full independence from Cairo and set up a civilian interim cabinet made up largely of technicians, engineers and lawyers and headed by Dr. Mamoun Kuzbari, a 47-year-old veteran politician. Incomplete reports from the Mediterranean country told of clashes with Egyptian troops. One broadcast said 200 Egyptian paratroopers had been wiped out. Another said 120 commando invaders had been captured without bloodshed. It was not clear whether the accounts concerned the same action.

The U.A.R. breakup held serious implications for the whole Arab world. The Jordan government of King Hussein, long an opponent of Nasser, declared support for the revolutionaries. There was speculation that Iraq might follow suit quickly. King Hassan of Morocco declared for Nasser and Arab unity.

PEACE RACE

In a major statement to the United Nations General Assembly Monday, President Kennedy laid down United States policy on the chief issues dividing East and West.

On Berlin, he reiterated that the Western allies would stand firm in defence of West Berlin but said they wanted to negotiate and were not committed to a "rigid formula."

But his main proposals concerned a broadened disarmament plan under which nuclear powers would agree at the outset not to give control of atomic weapons to other countries.

He called for quick resumption of disarmament talks, which would continue until a complete disarmament program had been achieved, challenged the Soviet Union to a "peace race," and again proposed a treaty to end nuclear tests.

SOVIET REPLY

In the Soviet reply next day, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko insisted the road to disarmament had been mapped by Premier Khrushchev two years ago and said the nuclear test ban treaty should be included in over-all disarmament negotiations.

In a statement some Western observers found encouraging, he urged that the UN take a firmer role in disarmament, and the Berlin crisis.

BACK KENNEDY PLAN

Western leaders, led by Britain's Foreign Secretary Lord Home, expressed general approval of Kennedy's proposals.

Prime Minister DeLoach in the Commons Wednesday gave "full Canadian support" to the plan—including the provision to prohibit spread of nuclear weapons, which would directly affect Canada. External Affairs Minister Green Bay said earlier that Canada favoured an important part in drawing up the proposals.

ELECTION BREEZE

Early on Friday, Parliament wound up its session—the longest in history—after crowded days of debate in which every issue seemed to be treated as grist for the election mills. There still was no firm word when the vote might come.

In the closing moments of the session, royal assent was given to the controversial government bill setting up a new dominion provincial tax-sharing agreement. Opposition spokesmen said the measure, under which the provinces would levy their own income taxes, would return the country to the "tax jungles" of the 1930s.

KATANGA ULTIMATUM

As an uncertain truce continued in the Congo between UN forces and troops of breakaway Katanga province,

UN leaders on Thursday delivered a new ultimatum to President Moise Tshombe ordering him to get rid of his white mercenary officers within "a matter of days."

Mahmoud Khari of Tunisia, senior UN official who negotiated the cease-fire with Tshombe after the air crash of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, was reported to have brushed aside Tshombe's demands that the UN get out of the province.

FAREWELL TO DAG

Hammarskjöld's native country and the world-paid tribute to the UN leader Friday as funeral services were held in an ancient and austere Lutheran cathedral in his hometown of Uppsala, Sweden.

In a final farewell, Sweden's 81-year-old archbishop emeritus, Most Rev. Erling Eidem, said Hammarskjöld had been "a faithful son of the fatherland—a devoted servant of all mankind."

Daniel Johnson, named Saturday to head Quebec's Union Nationale party, denied any split in the party. . . . WEEK IN THE WEST

Saskatchewan's CCF government was urged to institute a government-sponsored and administered comprehensive and compulsory medical care scheme by the Thompson advisory committee on medical care. Recommendations of the commission, said Premier T. C. Douglas, probably would be incorporated in legislation at a special fall session of the legislature.

Delegates to the 49,000-member National Union of Public Employees annual convention in Winnipeg loudly approved a resolution to boycott Canadian Pacific Railway hotels across Canada due to a long, unsettled strike at Toronto's Royal York Hotel. Delegates voted overwhelmingly against a motion that would compel union locals to become members of provincial union divisions and councils. Delegates from the Lakehead area in Ontario said Lakehead locals were close to Manitoba and would rather keep things as they were.

National Liberal Leader

Lester Pearson, on a tour of Alberta and Saskatchewan federal Liberal nominating conventions, said the Liberals were opposed to nuclear arms for Canada. He said the next UN secretary-general problem would have to be an Asian or an African to win necessary support.

BEIRUT, Lebanon

— Syria's conservative new civilian government today dissolved the military group that boosted it to power and promised democracy and constitutional rule.

In a speech broadcast by Damascus radio, Premier Mamoun Kuzbari wrote the climax to a virtually bloodless coup by striking out on an independent road from President Nasser's United Arab Republic directed from Egypt.

The 47-year-old premier, who said he had been authorized to issue decrees pending free elections for a new legislature, announced a five-point reform program:

1. Restoration of cardinal freedoms and immediate abrogation of emergency laws.
2. "Perfection" of the army.
3. Freedom for labor unions and a share for workers in profits and administration.
4. Prosperity through stabilized currency and prices, higher living standards, increased productivity and respect for legitimate profit.
5. Measures to provide conditions for an efficient civil service system.

DREAM CRUMBLES

Thus what Nasser had built up in less than four years as the first step toward his dream of single "Arab nation" under Egyptian leadership crumbled in about 48 hours and left the countries of the Middle East manoeuvring for position. Turkey and Jordan — always

Minister Wants Removal Of Graves

NAKUSP (CP) — An Anglican Minister appealed here Friday for removal of graves from cemeteries which would be flooded by the Columbia River hydro project.

Rev. B. H. Pellegri made the submission at a public hearing of British Columbia Power Commission's application for water rights to build the 180-foot high Arrow Lake dam.

Commission spokesman Herbert Hunter said BCPC would abide by the ruling of the Public Utilities Commission which controls operation of cemeteries in the province.

Mr. Pellegri also spoke for about 30 senior citizens whose homes would be inundated by the dam project.

"The many elderly people in the area cannot be happily uprooted from their homes and many of them rely upon their vegetable gardens to make ends meet," he said.

There are human considerations as well as engineering and economic factors to be weighed, Mr. Pellegri said.

Nakusp resident Frances Lewis, about 70, added: "At my age I am not in a position to go and hunt for another place to live."

Commission chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside said the commission would assist the homeowners to find other places where they would be "comfortable and happy."

Earlier, Dr. Keenleyside said 650 homes housing about 2,000 people would be covered by the water which will reach a level of 43 feet behind the dam, one of three to be built in the $450,000,000 power project.

BEING EXAMINED

TORONTO (CP) — Barry Thorpe, 18, of Woodville, Ont., a University of Toronto freshman injured in an initiation, is under examination by a bone specialist. Thorpe suffered a chipped vertebra when he dived into a brick wall he couldn't see because a pillowcase had been placed over his head. Moffat Woodside, University College principal, said the incident is under investigation.

Relics Said To Be Fakes

LONDON (Reuters)—Relics in London's National Maritime Museum said to have been used by Lord Nelson, British naval hero of the Battle of Trafalgar, have been found to be fakes.

Experts at the museum disclosed Friday that a sword and a dirk in a scabbard could not have been used by the admiral because they were both made after Nelson's death.

Nelson died of wounds shortly after achieving victory in the 1805 Battle of Trafalgar against the French and Spanish fleets.

The relics were presented to the Royal Navy in a ceremony three weeks ago aboard the Victory, the ship Nelson sailed in at Trafalgar. The vessel is kept as a memorial in the southern port of Portsmouth.

C. DeVoy Dies In Hospital

Kelowna resident, Christopher DeVoy of 1019 Harvey Avenue, died Thursday in Kelowna General Hospital. He was 82.

Born in the United States, Mr. DeVoy came to B.C. on arriving in Canada in 1900. He was employed for many years by the late Joe Casorso.

Sorokoski Joins Pro. Engineers

A membership certificate in the Association of Professional Engineers, B.C. Central branch, will be given to R. Sorokoski, P. Eng., water rights branch, Kelowna, at the regular meeting of the engineers' group, slated for Pentecost on Oct. 6.

A life membership medalion will be presented to H. N. McPherson, P. Eng., Quinpool road, West Summerland, at the meeting.

The occasion is the annual visit to the B.C. Central Branch by association president William Hall of Victoria. Accompanying Mr. Hall will be the association's registrar, J. A. Merchant.

Also, we equipped a new Red Cross hospital in Agadir, Morocco.

The JRC assisted in establishing a vocational school in Lebanon, known as "Canada School."

One hundred re-conditioned sewing machines for a new self-help project, were bought at $30 apiece. Fifteen-thousand dollars were spent to establish dispensaries, $2,500 was spent to establish dispensaries, $2,500 was spent to operate six milk stations for six months. School supplies were purchased for a small island called Arguilla which was swept by Hurricane Donna.

An eight-year-old boy suffering from a congenital hip dislocation was sent to England for treatment and rehabilitation.

The American Junior Red Cross shared a project with the Canadian JRC. They equipped a special children's hospital with beds and physiotherapy equipment.

Between the Italian and Canadian Junior Red Cross, equipment for the new Cerebral Palsy Centre in Rome was purchased.

Clothing, blankets, afghans, health kits, foods, and other articles were sent by the Junior Red Cross to Chile after the earthquakes. From the B.C. Junior Red Cross Division alone $1,205.55 worth of goods was sent. A special drive was put on in which the many students made toys for the children for Christmas.

One hospital where the Chilean JRC takes care of ninety earthquake victims children has plenty of food, lots of room and good dorms—thanks to the Chilean and Canadian Junior Red Cross.

Money, food, clothing and other relief supplies were sent to Ceylon, where self-help projects were set up for the teenagers.

To Hong Kong, where it is estimated there are 2,000 refugee health kits, blankets, afghans quilts and toys. Money was also sent to buy educational equipment.

India's 12 million flood victims were sent $10,000 to purchase food, clothing and other relief supplies, and 122 health kits and 12 crib blankets, made by the North Platte High school students in Fort St. John, were sent to Aalen.

Schools all over Canada adopted, through the JRC, a school in Greece. The average income there, is only $60 per year, and the people cannot send their children to school. So, the Junior Red Cross groups purchased material amounting to about $35.

Prayers and rosary will be recited at the Garden Chapel 8:30 Sunday night.

Mr. DeVoy is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Rediske and a son Vernon. Both reside in the U.S.

Clarke and Bennett are in charge of funeral arrangements.

VTs Auditorium Will Not Fill Needs

Will the building of the new $1,700,000 technical school bring an auditorium to Kelowna suitable for concerts, plays, ballet and films?

"No" is the answer to this question which has raised false hopes of an easy solution to Kelowna's auditorium problem.

J. S. White, technical and vocational education director for the province, in speaking to Mayor Parkinson this week, made it clear that any auditorium built in connection with the vocational training school would be a flat-floor, multiple-use space, according to a news release by Dave Chapman, one of those spearheading a drive for a community auditorium in Kelowna.

Such a combination gymnasium and auditorium would merely augment similar space already in use in Kelowna.

It would not provide a solution to the ever growing problem of housing community concerts, plays, musical shows, operas, variety concerts, and ballet performances, says Mr. Chapman.

NO FACILITY NOW

Visitors to Kelowna are already commending it as a musical centre, yet nowhere in Kelowna can musicians perform knowing that their audience can fully enjoy the program.

Kelowna could become a drama centre. Again there is no suitable production space in Kelowna.

All these interests would draw people to Kelowna. When outsiders come to Kelowna the whole town benefits. A civic auditorium will not only answer the needs of Kelowna, it will draw visitors to Kelowna—a very worthwhile bonus," says Mr. Chapman.

A WARNING

Police said today that charges will follow if anyone is caught throwing litter, particularly glass, on the roadways of the district. The practice of throwing bottles on paved roads is not only dangerous but it cuts automobile tires, and could injure playing children.

APPLE HARVEST

The apple harvest in the Okanagan Valley has now reached its peak and pickers are busily packing the Okanagan's succulent fruit crop in the district's orchards. A good crop has been reported this year by fruit growers.

Citation To L. R. Stephens For Years Of Fine Service

Delegates to the annual regional conference of the British Columbia Red Cross heard the Red Cross Commissioner for the province call the organization the "biggest humanitarian organization in the world today."

The commissioner, S. L. Hewer, made the statement in an address he made to the meeting, held in Kelowna. Delegates from all parts of the Okanagan were in attendance, including five Okanagan Red Cross branches and eight officials from Vancouver.

Another speaker, Okanagan Regional Vice-President, Lt.-Col. J. D. Gemmill, of Kelowna, brought in to the meeting effects of nuclear bomb fear.

"In this modern age of stress and strain, when we are all wondering what we should do to lessen the risk of being obliterated by an atom bomb, I feel an opportunity is being missed," he said.

He said the missed opportunity was in that "we hear all kinds of suggestions as to civil defence, bomb-proof shelters and evacuation of cities. But I have yet to hear an authoritative voice urging the advisability of building up our Red Cross."

Col. Gemmill said that no other body has the organization the numbers of dedicated volunteers, the know-how, or the readily available means to cope with widespread devastation, the welfare of victims and the restoration of morale.

Special tribute was paid by the speakers to the women's work in the Canadian Red Cross. One statistic which was brought out was that $15,000 was spent yearly by the B.C. Division of the Red Cross on yardage. When the women had finished with this, it was worth in the neighborhood of $60,000.

During the meeting, W. J. McFadyen, vice-president of the BCRC, read a citation honoring L. R. Stephens of Kelowna.

The citation praised Mr. Stephens' contribution to the Society over the many years he has been associated with it. Red Cross Commissioner for the province called the organization the "biggest humanitarian organization in the world today."

Dealing with the work of the Red Cross in Canada, delegates learned that Canada sends half a million dollars' worth of clothing abroad each year. In addition to this, the Junior Red Cross, through its Crippled Children's Fund, last year raised $12,000 in B.C. alone to bring handicapped youngsters to Vancouver for treatment.

Across the province, eight outposts hospitals in unorganized territories look after the needs of scattered settlers.

In the field of a relatively new service added to the Red Cross, it was learned that during the past year, six families from behind the Iron Curtain have been reunited with relatives in B.C. At the moment, there are several applications on file from this district for more re-unifications.

The Canadian Red Cross works in co-operation with the Red Crescent in Russia through offices in Geneva to do this work of re-unification. Last year, there were 40 such families re-united in Canada.

Fifty Red Cross members and delegates were present. Officials from Vancouver included S. L. Hewer, B.C. Red Cross Commissioner; W. J. McFadyen, vice-president of the B.C. Red Cross Society; Mrs. Arthur (Reta) Myers, B.C. publicity chairman; Lt. Col. Arthur Freeman, director of blood donor services for B.C.; and W. B. CARS Fights Through Community Chest Fund

Time lost from work in Canada due to arthritis and rheumatism is more than four times the number of days lost through strikes and lockouts according to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

It estimates that in 1960 more than 9,500,000 days were lost by Canadians because of the diseases while strikes and lockouts in that year were 2,386,370 days.

Arthritis and rheumatism has totally or severely disabled 50,000 Canadians, partially disabled a further 115,000 and costs Canadian workers more than $75,000,000 in lost wages annually.

"This time loss is a tremendous burden on the industrial, economic and national life of Canada," Edward Dunlop, Executive Director of the Society said. "A great deal has been done, but while medical research is constantly seeking a solution to these crippling diseases there is a long road ahead."

Mr. Dunlop estimated that 62 per cent of those disabled by arthritis are between the employment ages of 18 and 64 years.

"The main hope for a cure lies in research," he said. "In this field a score of research projects are being carried out at university medical schools with the aid of grants from the society and the Department of National Health and Welfare. Over 50 fellowships have already been provided to enable young physicians to take advanced training in the treatment of rheumatic diseases."

In B.C. there is a rheumatology research unit at the University of B.C., sponsored by the CARS from a bequest of Mr. E. E. P. Cunliffe, late of Kamloops.

Mr. Dunlop said the society hoped to gain support from industry as a straight business investment because of the "staggering loss to production."

Campsite Fees Apparently Kept Campers On Move

The public campsites of the provincial park system have been objects of considerable interest and some controversy for the past couple of years. A use report issued by the department of recreation, therefore, is of some interest. The report shows that in 18 campsites in 1960 there were some 346,335 "camper nights" while in 1961 there were 343,296. This was a drop of about one per cent. "Camper nights" is not defined but presumably it means the number of people who spent a night in the parks.

The minister in making his announcement indicated that the whole subject of campsite use had received special scrutiny this year because of the fact that, for the first time, a collection of fees from campers had been undertaken in four selected parks. This plan had been put into force because of strong public reaction to what had been termed "camp-hogs" in these areas. Camp-hogs are the selfish people who had, in some instances, held on to choice campsites for months in these four particular parks. The fee had been imposed solely to keep these people moving so that the public might have the opportunity of using the campsites. In this objective the plan had been completely successful. There has been a satisfying decrease in the intensity of use for those areas. Campers kept moving after reasonable periods.

It is interesting to note that while decreases were recorded in three of the "fee parks", they were also noted on three of the "free parks". Use increased appreciably in southern Vancouver Island, the Kootenays, Cariboo and Central B.C. areas. In the Okanagan, a much more mixed picture was recorded with some sites showing a marked increase, while other recorded decreases. It is possible that the large number of private campsites appearing in the Okanagan af-

In 1960 21,160 camper nights were recorded at Okanagan Lake Park south of Peachland. In 1961 this figure jumped to 23,532. Okanagan Lake is the only "fee park" to show an increase in use. Cultus Lake dropped from 58,212 to 42,280. Miracle Beach dropped from 42,768 to 30,556. Shuswap Lake from 53,768 to 38,256. The four "fee" campsites showed a camper night drop this year from last of 41,284.

On the other hand the fourteen "free" campsites showed an increase of 38,244 camper nights. Among the free campsites it is interesting to note that Okanagan Falls dropped from 6,016 to 5,644 while Vaseaux Lake dropped from 4,000 to 3,100.

The figures would seem to suggest that the fee drove campers away in some degree from the four major campsites. This presumably was its purpose. But this probably is not wholly true as three free sites also showed less use.

Certainly the figures do show that eighteen campsites were used by just about as many people this year as last. There have been some statements that these campsites hurt the motel business. It is very possible that they do to some degree. These statements, however, have been countered by the argument that the large proportion of campsite users are family groups who, because of the expense, would not or could not make such a trip if they were forced to use motels.

This is an interesting argument but it still remains just that, an argument. As far as we know no survey has been taken of campsite users to ascertain whether or not there is any basis of truth in this supposition. Perhaps, next year, the department of recreation could make such a survey as the campers sign in at the various sites?

Northern Skyscrapers

Seven-storey buildings may not sound spectacular. But in the Canadian North they are a distinct novelty, and the federal government's plans for these relatively tall structures at Frobisher Bay on the east coast of Baffin Island represent a bold experiment, says the Ottawa Citizen. The decision of the Department of Northern Affairs was reached only after some years of deliberation. Once there was talk of plastic-covered buildings to accommodate a population of many thousands. Those earlier plans were predicted largely on Frobisher becoming a major air centre of the world; the emerging pattern of jetage traffic, however, does not seem to point in that direction.

There has also been controversy over the location of the new townsite. The Arctic community of 1,500 permanent residents (650 of them Eskimos) is scattered along the rugged and picturesque bay in several distinct sections, including a primitive Eskimo village. Many Eskimo families have been adapting themselves to life in modern homes, and this process will not doubt continue; it appears on the whole to be working out well.

Whether the decision on the location of the new town has been wisely taken, only time will tell. In these matters the planners can never be completely certain of the outcome, and this is particularly true where a community is made up largely of people just emerging from a stone age civilization.

From the engineering point of view, at least, the problem should not be excessive, the Citizen believes. Frobisher's climate is harsh but not intolerable. There are no foundation worries, for the apartment and office buildings, hospital, school and other fireproof structures will rest on solid rock, as do the temporary buildings they are to replace. In this respect Frobisher Bay is more fortunate than the Mackenzie River delta town of Inuvik, where instability of the soil gave rise to construction difficulties.

What lies ahead for the Eastern Arctic town is anyone's guess. There are mineral deposits yet to be tapped. Frobisher Bay may never be a metropolis, but it should have a significant part in the development of a huge section of the North.

"BRAKEMANSHIP NOT BRINKMANSHIP"—MR. DIF.

Fort St. John No Skinny Runt But Still Wears High Boots

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—Fort St. John is one of the oldest white settlements in British Columbia, but in large measure it's still wearing the high boots and open-necked shirt of the frontier.

It's no skinny runt, mind you, and any suggestion of that sort is as likely to get you run out of town as if you were to malign Frank McMahon, the Americans or the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

For Fort St. John has grown fat and strong with the help of all three and it is taking on an air of city sophistication with its residential subdivisions, its supermarkets and growing miles of sidewalks.

Its population, however, remains predominantly one of hardy, informal outdoorsmen, made up of farmers, laborers, tradesmen, technicians and professional engineers who spend more time in the field than in an office chair.

The streets are still dusty when it's dry, muddy when it's wet. The rapidly expanding telephone service is erratic as facilities are strained. And much of the recreation is centered in the facilities of the three modern hotels that flank the main business thoroughfare.

STARTED LATE
For all its size, Fort St. John is barely out of knee pants in its development, most of its growth having come in the last five or six years.

Established as a fur-trading post by Simon Fraser after Alexander Mackenzie made his epic boat trip up the Peace River in 1792-93, it grew slowly for 150 years.

Until the U.S. Army pushed through the Alaska Highway in 1941-42, it remained an isolated, little-known community 50 miles of dirt road north of the rail line at Dawson Creek and 420 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Even as late as 1950 it had fewer than 1,000 residents and served as a tiny agricultural service community and stopping place on the Alaska Highway.

Today, nearly 10 years after Mr. McMahon's Pacific Petroleum Company brought in its first gas well in the area to spark an oil boom that still continues and four years after the PGE line was completed from Vancouver, Fort St. John is a community of 6,000.

Its trailer camps and shack towns are fast giving way to modern housing. Makeshift business places are being replaced by buildings that give an air of permanency.

PAST ROOM STAGE

"We have a good hold here now," says H. G. (Pappy) Galbreath, service station operator and president of the Chamber of Commerce, who came here from Georgia with the start of the oil hunt. "I don't think you can call it any longer a boom town."

The farming community, long the economy's backbone, has grown steadily since the opening of the Alaska Highway and its bridge across the Peace River 10 miles south at Taylor. It has moved ahead even more rapidly since the PGE came through in 1957 and in the last two years has attracted many American ranchers seeking room to expand.

But it was petroleum that brought Fort St. John to the attention of the outside, and built it to rapidly. Pacific Petroleum's discoveries brought other companies into the region seeking petroleum riches. They also brought secondary industry that maintained the population here when the bulk of the search force moved farther north.

SEE NEW BOOM

Today, more than 200 Fort St. John residents are employed directly by McMahon companies—Pacific Petroleum, Taylor, and the office and field locations of Westcoast Transmission Company which transports natural gas to southern markets. With agriculture expanding on rich soil that regularly produces 50 bushels of wheat to the acre—the national average is 12—with a possible new beef and pork market in Alaska that could bring a packing plant here; with an expanding tourist trade; and with growing service industries, Fort St. John residents feel their future is assured.

The people look with anticipation to Hudson Hope, 60 miles west, for another boom, bigger than any in the past, when work begins on the dam that will harness the power potential of the mighty Peace River.

Newspaper editor Don Murray says the country's hot and cold weather extremes, high transportation costs, growing educational tax burden and little-developed side roads are drawbacks but they can be overcome. "This is a wonderful country and we've got every reason to believe in the future."

Live With Nephritis

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.

Poor Annie! Can anything help her nephritis?

Yes! Her nephritis had crept in silently and smothered for years. Many kidney troubles do.

Eventually, scars and tired tubules slow down kidney function. After pounding the kidneys year after year, high blood pressure can hammer out the same kidney trouble. In either case, some extra protein (albumin) and a few red blood cells trickle through the damaged kidneys, while blood pressure scores new highs.

The heart has to beat stronger to pump against this increased pressure. Its muscles grow and every fiber stretches to squeeze out all the blood the body needs. If it fails to keep up, blood seeps through tiny capillaries to cause swelling.

STROKES POSSIBLE

The pounding pulse may push extra fluid into the skull and make your head throb. This extra pressure occasionally leads to serious complications, including strokes.

Help control these complications before they begin. Rest twice a day and nine hours at night, if possible.

Your doctor may prescribe a sedative if headache and irritability keep you from sleeping. A warm bedtime bath fights kidney trouble three ways. It lowers blood pressure, helps you sweat out extra salt and relaxes you better than a sedative—all because the heat opens blood vessels in the skin.

Exercise—but walk, don't run. A brisk stroll can pep up both you and your kidneys and whip up intestinal action, too. When straining makes faces flush and veins bulge, blood pressure skyrockets high enough for strokes. Mild laxatives can eliminate this danger, too.

NEW STRENGTH

Sluggish kidneys may cause tired blood. But iron, vitamins and even transfusions can pour new strength into worn-out corpses.

Let your doctor plan the best routine for you. He'll know what special drugs or diet you need. You can check those complications.

Annie's able to enjoy life today. Tomorrow, doctors may be able to exchange new kidneys for old!

REPORT FROM THE U.K.

Mr. K Brings Back Spirit Of 1940

By M. McINTYRE HOOD
Special London (Eng.) Correspondent

For The Daily Courier
LONDON — Nikita Khrushchev has managed to arouse the ire of the British people, and to give a sense of urgency to their thinking on the bitterly cold war which threatens to turn hot. It only needed his charge that Britain was an expendable hostage to Russia, to be liquidated if a shooting war with the United States began, to stir the feelings of the average Britisher.

Khrushchev's suggestion that because of this Britain, along with France and Italy, would back down on their NATO obligations to save their own skins has brought about a resurgence of something like the 1940 spirit here.

Of course there is no jingoism. There is a sober appraisal of the position which Britain would find itself in the event of any kind of hostilities. But that Britain should turn her back on her allies because of danger is regarded as unthinkable. It only required Mr. Khrushchev's unkind dig to make that crystal clear.

NEGOTIATION HOPES

In spite of this, there is a strong feeling, voiced throughout the press, that there must be negotiations to solve the dispute over the status of West Berlin. I have had some interesting conversations with some English business and professional people, and workers as well, on their thinking with regard to Berlin. While all of them felt that a settlement must be negotiated, none of them expressed any strong support for the theory that Britain must be ready to fight a war over Berlin. One of them said bluntly: "To defend the present position of West Berlin, a small island in the midst of a Communist sea, is not worth the life of one British soldier."

I doubt if the general thinking of the British people goes as far as that. Rather, there seems to be a strong feeling that Premier Macmillan and Lord Home, the foreign secretary, will be able to arrange for the negotiations which everyone wants, and that talks around the table will dispel the specter of possible war. And it is significant that in the latest public poll, the Conservatives have once again moved ahead of Labour, and confidence in Mr. Macmillan has jumped upwards by several points. The people of Britain apparently believe he is the right man to deal with the Berlin menace wisely.

TO BUILD HOSPITALS

In spite of the curbs on government expenditure, imposed by Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd, there is one segment of spending which is not going to be cut. That is in the field of hospital building and development.

Enoch Powell, minister of health, in a memorandum to all hospital authorities, made it clear that the health needs of the country are not to be impaired by cancelling or postponing the building of new hospitals to keep down their costs by increased efficiency. Thanks to the progress made in getting better value for money spent in hospital service, he says, he feels able to ask hospital boards to meet the cost of general price increases during the current year from the existing allocations of funds.

On the other hand, he says he will be prepared to provide extra money to meet the cost of salary and wage awards which have come into force since the allocations of funds for this year were made.

This is taken as a direct indication that the economy drive is not to be allowed to interfere with measures to protect the public health.

BACKS COMMON MARKET

Support for Britain's desire to join the European Common Market has come from an unexpected source. It is backed by Lord Netherthorpe, who, as Sir James Turner, was for several years president of the National Farmers' Union, and in that capacity visited Canada. He claims that the Common Market would offer opportunities to British food producers. Speaking at the opening of an "Eat British" Exhibition in London, he said:

"If Britain does go into the Common Market, our farmers face both a challenge and an opportunity; a challenge to greater efficiency in production and marketing, and an opportunity to sell their quality food on the continent of Europe."

The general trend of agricultural opinion has been opposed to Britain joining the Common Market, this support from a former leader of the National Farmers' Union has been accepted as giving some encouragement to the government.

GOVERNMENT TO ACT

The government is ready to take action to curb ballot rigging and other irregularities in trade union elections, unless the Trades Union Congress takes on the job itself. This was made clear to union leaders by John Hare, minister of labor, in an interview with the general secretary of the TUC, George Woodcock.

Proposals the government has in mind are that Sir Cecil Crabbe, the chief registrar of friendly societies, be given authority by act of parliament to investigate charges of irregularities in trade union elections; and that model rules for union elections be laid down by law.

At the interview, Mr. Woodcock held that the Electrical Trades Union case does not justify government interference in the internal affairs of the unions. Mr. Hare told the TUC secretary that the government is concerned not only with the ETU case, but with the whole question of the conduct of union elections.

ELECTION STOPPED

The minister's view, received support almost simultaneously from the halting of an election for an executive post in the Amalgamated Engineering Union by its executive committee, because of complaints of illegal interference in the election by left-wing officials. The officials concerned have been called before the executive and two of them were reprimanded. Meanwhile, the election has been stopped and deferred to a later date.

Society For Retarded Children Will Present Puss N' Boots

A committee of women from the Kelowna and District Society for Retarded Children has been working busily on preparations for Holiday Theatre's "Puss N' Boots" to be presented at the Kelowna Senior High School Auditorium, Wednesday, October 4th at 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Any child or adult attending "Puss N' Boots" will have his enjoyment doubled by the knowledge that he is not only helping himself to pleasure but also helping a Sunnyvale child. Willing volunteers are assisting Mrs. A. B. Perley with the ticket sales in the schools and will be ushering at the performances.

The story of "Puss N' Boots" revolves around a wonderful talking cat who is so anxious to obtain a pair of red leather boots that he does not think it strange when a large talking fish gives them to him in exchange for life. When the fish proves to be a wicked Enchanter, Puss finds himself involved in many magical adventures. Everyone who sees "Puss N' Boots" will be pleased by this wonderful cat's clever ways.

This delightful play enjoyed a great success when toured by Holiday Theatre in 1954 and Kelowna is fortunate indeed to have another showing so that a new generation of children can thrill to the adventures of "Puss N' Boots".

SOMEONE ELSE'S OPINION

Editor — I would appreciate a small space in your paper to express my amazement at the peculiar attitude of some people, supposedly interested in sport!

I cannot understand the pitiful "wailings" of the Pentiction Basketball Team, objecting to playing against Bob Hall's Teddies because they cannot win! Imagine!

Pentiction should feel honoured and privileged to have games against them—think of the practice and what they could learn. The Kelowna Teddies did not become good in one day—many weeks of training, practicing and excellent coaching have resulted in their high standing.

I will never forget the thrill of playing for Kelowna against Percy Page's Edmonton Grads, who were World Champions!

We knew we hadn't a chance, but what fun and what an experience!

How times have changed in the line of good sports, for the game's sake!

ANNE MCCLYMONT

IABA MEET

The Interior Amateur Basketball Association meeting in Vernon featured quick barometer changes—a "stormy session."

Bob Hall, bow-light of the good ship Meikle Teddy Bears, ran around on a comment from Bert White, immediate past president of the association who said that the Bears are a collection of All Star players from all over B.C.

Bob Hall apparently felt that his team could be called local because four players were Kelowna girls. This isn't much of a ratio.

The Senior 'B' Women's league has suggested that the league be broken up into two, with a B-1 loop and a B-2 elite. Kelowna would be isolated in the first category.

Bob Hall has collected one of the finest clubs this City has ever seen. His methods were the only thing under protest. Bert White and the Pentiction club feel that the all-powerful collection of girls, which has claimed players from as far away as Vancouver and the Kootenays, is destroying the competition in the league.

UNBALANCED POWER
The Teddies have demonstrated this unbalanced power in the league by losing only one game in 90.

Because the Senior 'C' leagues in the Okanagan have gone to Davy Jones' locker, and because the Senior 'B' vessel was threatened with a dunking, the IABA has decided to go it by the book.

Cities with 5,000 people or more will be included in the B-1 loop, before it can think about contesting a B-2 league. B-1 will include Vernon, Kelowna, Kamloops, Pentiction and Orville Washington.

I REITERATE
I'm sorry to harp on it, but it is kind of obvious. You can't ignore it. It's as obvious as a thumb on the head.

Another man ambitious to float a battleship has shored up the sides of a rowboat, leaky, unreliable, and unspectacular, in an effort to come up with H.M.C.S. Success.

Some people think: If Bob Hall can do it year after year why shouldn't he? These are the people who like to take cruises on ships like the one that Hall cracked a champagne bottle on last year.

But if you put all your money into building one big ship, you won't have enough for a fleet. I think it would be tactically better to have a number of small vessels in a battle than a single big one, or a competitive league rather than a Canadian Championship.

His use of imports has hurt the league and Pentiction's Basketball (Are they guilty, too?) Club and Bert White were intelligent enough to realize that, something like Sunken "C" ball, Senior 'B' ball couldn't have a navy with only one big ship capable of crossing the ocean.

ANSWER
Pentiction Herald's Stan Kelly created Nats Yilek by the simple process of thinking backwards, then spelling backwards. Thankyou, Mr. 'K' for being patient with this kid. You do sound a mite ruffled, but touche, anyhow.

I have my own world-stomping attitude in sports. His name is Ciro Neerg, and he's a Swede. He lamented my impetuosity in stepping off the deep end when I wired him the tolls to Stockholm.

HE AGREED
He agreed with me that my readers should not have to be spooned, but chided me on my liberal use of alliteration.

Just give them the food, and when they get hungry they'll eat, he said.

United States, India Tie Davis Cup Interzone Play

NEW DELHI (AP) — The United States and India tied 1-1 today by splitting the first two singles matches of their Davis Cup tennis interzone final. Ramanathan Krishnan, the "big fellow" who carries India's hopes in this international tennis competition, pulled his country even by beating veteran Whitney Reed in the second singles match 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

Chuck McKinley had got the United States off to a 1-0 lead by defeating Jaidep Mukerjee in the first singles 6-4, 6-4, 9-7.

The split means that the best-of-five match cannot be decided before the final two singles Monday.

The day, the doubles will be played Sunday. The winner goes to Rome to meet Italy Oct. 13-15 for the right to play Australia in the challenge round in December.

SLOW DEATH SAYS SPORTS ILLUSTRATED

Amateur Athletic Union Dieing; Coaches' Federation Proposed

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States moving to a slow but certain death?

The AAU, a part of the American sports scene more than 70 years, issued an emphatic "no" Friday.

Still, there are constant rumblings to the contrary. A national magazine (Sports Illustrated) said this week the AAU "began to die last week in a small room on the fourth floor of the Olympic House on Park Avenue in New York City."

While the AAU will not die overnight, it cannot survive long.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has polled its members on whether they would support a proposed U.S. Federation of Track Coaches to replace the AAU as track and field governing body.

There's another move afoot aimed at ending AAU control of amateur basketball. The matter will be aired Monday at a meeting in Chicago between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and AAU officials.

These developments caused the AAU to call a press conference here Friday. During the two-hour parley, N. J. Barack of Columbus, Ohio, president of the AAU, told reporters "one college association and a small vocal group of college coaches" are attempting to cause a split in the administration of amateur athletics.

He asserted the AAU would "not recede from its obligations to supervise and conduct amateur track and field."

The International Amateur Athletic Federation of which the AAU is a member "would not condone control of amateur track and field by an avowed professional group," even if it could.

Both Barack and Pius Sobe of New York's AAU track and field committee chairman, denied several allegations in the magazine story.

The story named 50 leading American track and field stars as having indicated they would leave the AAU.

Canadians Condemn Action

Officials of Canada's Amateur Athletic Union in Montreal, Winnipeg and Toronto joined Friday in condemning reported plans of professional coaches in the United States to take over the American AAU's track and field activities.

Jack Davies of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian AAU and only Canadian member of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, said such a takeover would probably be illegal under IAAF rules.

Earlier Friday, N. J. Barack of Columbus, Ohio, president of the American AAU, described as "unfortunate and a rather tragic" efforts to create a new federation to replace the AAU in track and field.

Barack said a small group of coaches is trying to replace the AAU to gain control of U.S. track and field for national and international competition.

In Montreal, Davies said under IAAF rules, control of amateur sport must be by amateurs and "coaches are nearly always professionals by definition."

SETS RULES
The IAAF sets the rules and controls international amateur sport, including the Olympic games.

In Toronto, Fred Harding, president of the Ontario branch of the Canadian AAU, said there was no dissension in the ranks of the Canadian group and no professionals are trying for a takeover.

Mr. Harding said the Canadian group is preparing for its annual convention Nov. 2-4 in Edmonton.

In Winnipeg, the Canadian AAU track and field chairman, Jim Daly, said he strongly doubts that a situation would develop in which professionals would be able to compete in amateur sports or that expense limits would be dropped.

"We're not likely to have anything like the current American situation in Canada," he added.

"We certainly don't need another governing body for track and field in this country."

Stengel Cuts Mustard As NL Mets' Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel, fired last year by the New York Yankees because he was too old, returned to baseball Friday at the age of 71 as manager of the New York Mets of the National League.

Stengel agreed to come back for at least a year in an early morning telephone conversation with his old boss, George Weiss, 65, president of the Mets.

Stengel was offered a "brisk" comment when asked if Casey would get as high a salary as the $80,000 the Yanks were said to have paid him.

"Casey wants to do one-year contract," Weiss said at a news conference. "He told me: 'If I like it and you want me, we will have no difficulties after that.'"

Weiss offered a brisk "no" in New York Monday to go over the lists of players that will be made available by the other National League clubs.

The actual selection will be made by the New York team and the new Houston team the day after the World Series ends.

"Casey wanted a one-year handle the type of team we will inherit," said Weiss. "There are bound to be older men on the way out. We don't expect too many budding Mickey Mantles in this grab bag. You've got to have a fellow they can respect and look up to."

The return of Stengel reunited the old team that was successful with the Yanks where Stengel, working under Weiss, won 10 pennants in 12 years and seven World Series. Both were put out to pasture by the Yanks after the 1960 World Series defeat by Pittsburgh.

Reds Clobber Pirates And O'Toole Tunes Up

Jim O'Toole, Cincinnati's southpaw ace scheduled to face New York Yankees in the opening game of the world series Wednesday, is well primed but the Reds may be in trouble if an injury to batterymate Darrell Johnson is serious.

Johnson strained a muscle in his left side while taking batting practice before O'Toole hurled five innings of four-hit ball in his final tuneup for the series while the Reds clobbered Pittsburgh Pirates 8-1.

It was the eighth straight victory and the 19th in 28 decisions for the 24-year-old O'Toole, who hasn't lost since Aug. 11. Manager Fred Hutchinson was pleased but showed concern over the injury that leaves Johnson in a doubtful status for the series.

SPAIN WINS
Meanwhile, Milanwite Braves retained a chance to tie San Francisco for third place in the National League by whipping the Giants 4-1 behind Warren Spahn in a five-inning game halted by rain. The other clubs were idle.

Spahn (21-13) stopped the Giants on four hits, winning 21 games for the 11th time in his career. Eddie Mathews produced the necessary runs with his 32nd homer, a two-run shot off loser Jack Sanford (13-9) in the third. Sanford scored the San Francisco run on Willie Mays' sacrifice fly.

The Pirates reached O'Toole for their only run in the fifth inning on a two-out triple by Don Clendenon and Dick Stuart's single. The Reds scored three runs off Larry Foss (1-1) in the first inning, two on Gordon Coleman's 26th homer.

Argos Give Thanks Vote To Martinello
TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts should move a vote of thanks to middle guard Marty Martinello for the club's 22-19 Canadian Football League victory over Calgary Stampede Friday night. He made the big play that ignited an Argonaut 13-point fourth-quarter scoring surge.

The 230-pound Martinello, a key man on Toronto's defensive team all year, barged through to block a Calgary kick on the first play of the final session. It got them a touchdown and from that point on Argonauts took command.

Dave Mann scored both Toronto touchdowns on passes from quarterback Tobin Rote in nine minutes after Martinello's big defensive manoeuvre. And the crowd of 23,546 had booed Argonauts for most of the game.

Stayed steady to cheer. The Stampede outlasted Argonauts for the first three periods, were ahead 19-9 and appeared to be well on the way to their fourth victory in nine starts. But Martinello and Mann blunted all their efforts.

MUNICIPAL SAFETY

Mayor T. McCammon of Chilliwack holds a certificate and an engraved shield presented to him at the UBCM in Vernon. The shield and certificate were presented to the mayor in recognition of the safe operations of municipal employees in Chilliwack during the past year. The award is given annually to the municipality which has the highest level of safe operations.

Convention Pleas For BCE Deal Continuance

VERNON (Staff) — The Union of B.C. Municipalities will ask the provincial government for a status quo guarantee regarding tax agreements between municipalities formerly served by the B.C. Electric Company and the newly-owned power utility. The resolution, one of the 108 to be considered by the UBCM convention, was submitted by the Fraser Valley Municipal Association which fears its members may suffer financial loss if B.C. Power Commission policy is exchanged for present agreements with the expropriated B.C. Electric Company.

CHAIRMAN CHARGES

Too Many Speeches At UBCM Meetings

VERNON (Staff) — To chairman William Henderson, 66, of Cumberland, times have changed... and not for the better. Mr. Henderson, who has been a Cumberland municipal representative since 1927, said Friday that Union of B.C. Municipalities conventions were becoming gabfests without enough discussion of resolutions.

Naturalists Return From U.S. Trip

VERNON (CP) — Naturalists Clarence Fulton and Joe Delenger have returned from a trip to Washington state with a plan to boost the wild goose population of this area by using abandoned washtubs as prefabricated nests. They said washtubs placed on poles in breeding areas have increased Washington state's goose population threefold during the last few years. The bathtubs keep the geese out of the way of predators.

OVERSEAS SCHOLARS

LONDON (CP) — The British Council estimates 50,000 students from overseas are now studying in Britain, and another 10,000 are expected before the end of the year. The convention was unanimously in backing the FVMA resolutions. The convention approved Kamloops as the location of the UBCM convention in 1962. Reeve Alan Emmott of Burnaby and Mayor Garvin Dezell of Prince George announced they will compete for 1963 convention honors. Installation of the incoming executive and a windup jam-boree closed the 58th annual convention.

ADMINISTRATIVE AWARD PRESENTED

The Hon. Wesley D. Black, B.C. Minister of Municipal Affairs is seen with Mayor Tom Alsbury of Vancouver just after presentation of an award received by the mayor on behalf of Edward Herber, Vancouver municipal employee who came tops in recent exams in municipal administration during a course at UBC. The award was presented at the UBCM convention now being held in Vernon.

Total 108 Resolutions Dealt With At UBCM

VERNON (Staff) — Fifty-seven resolutions were approved, eleven were referred to the executive for study and 40 either lost or withdrawn at the 58th annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities which closed here today.

A total of 108 were considered during the three-day affair. Probably the most important of the session were the special executive resolutions on education which intend that the UBCM executive work toward government subsidization of all school operating costs out of the proposed provincial income tax.

They also approve an exhaustive study of all revenue resources toward paying school operating costs. Among other important resolutions were: Asking for amendment of the municipal act to allow a simple majority of electors in a municipality to approve non-commercial Sunday sports. That a special UBCM committee be appointed to work with the provincial government to establish "mutually acceptable lines of responsibility" for flood and erosion control costs. That the provincial and federal governments be requested to extend the powers of Civil Defence to provide assistance in cases of threatened civil disaster or civil disaster arising out of floods, explosions, or other causes creating a local emergency. That the UBCM ask for establishment of more regional planning boards and give greater financial assistance to existing boards.

Asking for provincial help to municipalities to build airports where they are not eligible for Federal grants-in-aid. That the provincial government be requested to pass legislation for control of indiscriminate dumping of garbage in unorganized areas and that proper dumping grounds be established in these areas. That the province take steps to prohibit the musicians union from exacting stand-by fees or penalizing union members for playing at charity or non-commercial affairs.

Asking for legislation which would make a simple majority sufficient in public voting on money bylaws. Extension of borrowing power of municipalities. Asking for study of trade licence provisions of the municipal act to remove "the apparent injustices."

Asking for Provincial Government sharing of policing costs where highways run through municipalities. Amendment of the Municipal Act to provide holding of municipal elections on Saturday.

Under the B.C. Hydro arrangement municipalities receive three per cent of revenue but taxes only on land and office buildings not used in connection with the generating of power. This would mean a loss to the district of Mission of about $190,000 a year, claimed Reeve W. R. Jack of Mission.

Mr. Booth, who is chairman of the utility committee of the FVMA, said the annual loss to Langley municipality would be about $64,000. Mr. Booth said the association could get no assurance from Premier Bennett that the B.C. Electric policy would not be changed.

Other last-minute resolutions came from Burnaby and Penitction. The Burnaby suggestion, which was approved, seeks an extension of tax exemption for fallout shelters built outside homes.

Present exemption, maximum $600, only exempts from taxation shelters built in basements. The Penitction resolution, which also gained convention approval, asks for amendment to the Hospital Construction Aid Tax Act to exempt municipalities from collection of tax in respect to admission fees to museums.

The convention was unanimously in backing the FVMA resolutions. The convention approved Kamloops as the location of the UBCM convention in 1962. Reeve Alan Emmott of Burnaby and Mayor Garvin Dezell of Prince George announced they will compete for 1963 convention honors.

Installation of the incoming executive and a windup jam-boree closed the 58th annual convention.

UBCM PRESIDENT

New president of the UBCM who was elected Friday at the sessions of the group in Vernon is Mayor Tom Short-house of Nelson.

They're 'Dreadful Ones' — Mercenaries of Katanga

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Some people call them the Les Affreux — The Dreadful Ones. They are white mercenaries — soldiers for pay — and the mainstay of President Moise Tshombe's Katanga army.

They are a mixture of disgruntled French paratroop officers, foreign legionnaires, adventure-seeking South Africans and Rhodesians. Belgians who say they want to save Katanga from communism, and other Europeans.

Some were driven to Katanga by the passion for adventure, others by an unexplained, mystic search for something they had been unable to find elsewhere. Many cannot explain why they are in Katanga.

During this correspondent's stay in Katanga he talked to a number of these men. They said the world does not understand them and the press presents them as criminals. "No one will never understand," some said.

There were others less idealistic Frenchmen. A young lieutenant said his sole pleasure was to "kill those UN bastards." He did not explain why. "This is the place where you can get rid of your complexes," said a South African.

A white instructor used to get the basic pay of 15,000 Katanga francs a month — $250 according to the official exchange rate. Officers get higher salaries. In the chaotic economy of the Katanga army, money is fittingly scarce and few of the mercenaries complain about its shortage. But it seemed that money

LUMBY (Staff) — RCMP are looking for a man and his logging truck who left an obvious trail of damage through Lumby and Vernon late Wednesday night.

Evidence has led authorities to assume that it was a load of logs at least three and one half feet over legal height that proceeded from Mable Lake area to some mill north of Vernon. In Lumby telephone wires and cross braces sixteen feet above the street were broken leaving Lumby with no fire alarm and telephone connections with the outside for over three hours.

RCMP Cpl. R. Turnbull alerted the Lumby volunteer fire department then patrolled the village until service was restored.

Something a little harder to understand was the neon sign over Mars Cafe also being hit, said Mrs. Kuroka. "It must have been quite a load."

Two electrical services were also broken on Mara Avenue in Vernon. The Vernon RCMP were alerted but the culprit slipped through.

"We don't get co-operation on this sort of thing," reported Cpl. Turnbull. "They (the truckers) raise a big fuss when the patrol comes out and catches them with overloads knowing that damage like this is the result of overloading."

Fortunately no fires occurred, but one other question bothers the RCMP. That is why if truckers in this district can only make it pay with overloads are they not being paid the price set by the public utilities board.

Other resolutions asked for non-commercial affairs. A study into the need for chronic hospitals in B.C., requesting an increase in the rate of jurors pay, and urged establishment of a Dental Faculty at the University of B.C.

A special resolution asked that the UBCM executive, before posing changes in legislation affecting municipalities so that they may be studied and debated, if deemed necessary by the UUBCM executive, before such changes came before the municipal matters committee of the legislature.

VERNON (CP) — The union of B.C. Municipalities convention Friday approved a resolution asking that employable persons receiving social welfare be required to work for their keep. Consideration of the resolution from Saanich highlighted the final day of the three-day convention.

The resolution, of 101 considered, asks that the UBCM petition the provincial and federal governments to review existing policy in respect of the payment of social allowance to unemployed employables with a view to requiring that recipients of welfare, in the employable category, be required to perform work in return for payment of allowances.

Major opposition to the move came from Councillor R. E. Hicks of Burnaby, who claimed the resolution would harm the labor market for regular job-holders.
